ABOUT SLATE STONE

Slate Stone is a fine-grained metamorphic rock. It's main constituents are quartz, chlorite, mica & calcite. Slate stone is formed when ocean or riverbed sediments are compressed and heated by the earth's crust.

These slates are generally soft to hard in nature and characterized by the presence of cleavages along which they can be easily split into the thinner tiles.

Slate floor and wall tiles are available in more than 140 natural colors with a variety of textures through out the world. Majority of Slate colours occurs with shades like Grey, Green, Purple, Pink, Yellow, Black etc.

Different sizes are obtained depending upon natural cracks in the deposits. Uniform thickness is not possible unless these stones are calibrated.

These Slates are mainly used for CLADDING, FLOORING and ROOFING. We offer wide range of Colors, Finishes [Textures] & Sizes, Tiles, Slabs & Random, Natural Cleft, Honed & Calibrated [Gauged]

ADVANTAGE OF USING SLATE STONES :

1. Resistance to acid and pollutants
2. Total fireproof building material
3. A highly slip resistant material
4. The outstanding insulation from heat and cold
5. Resistance to chipping, Cracking and abrasion.
6. A long life material
7. The warmth and elegance of a natural stone available in many different colours of choice.
8. They are low cost maintenance material
9. They are non-absorbent so they resist staining and impede moss and algae growth.

Slate is highly resistant to damage, as long as it is applied to a solid substrate.
slate tile has been installed with wide grout joints. We suggest 3/8" for the 1' x 1' and 1/2" for the 2' x 2'

NOTE: Since Slate Stones are natural materials, it will have color variation.
Due to slight variations in slate stone size it need to be dressed before using tiles spacers.
